

Aims

- To increase the influence and renown of the National University, as well as the stature of the School of Economic Science, the Institute of Economic Science Research, FES-Aragón and FES-Acatlán.
- To inform and to provide with a guideline to the society about the national and international economic atmosphere.
- To provide to the University with a stronger position in the discussion about the economic development in Mexico and, in general terms, in the discussion about the socio-economic realities of the country and the world.
- To disseminate the research and contributions of both the social scientists of the National University and those from other academic institutions, organisms and entities belonging either to the public or private sector in the country, or those coming from overseas.
- To spread the theoretical, empirical or even reflexive contributions of the National University to other Universities or Academic Institutions in Mexico and overseas. Even more, to propagate these contributions into a number of non academic sectors such as organisations, public and private entities in the country or abroad, and in general to those who are following the socioeconomic environment and the designers of the economic policies.
- To encourage the dialogue between the social scientists of the National University with those from other Institutions from Mexico and abroad. To promote a bigger and wider affiliation of both academics and specialists to ECONOMIAunam.
